

Ken & Dorothy

New Mexico

Dorothy and I want to wish you and your family a "Merry Christmas" or as they say in New Mexico "Feliz Navidad" (literally "Happy Nativity").

Once again we have much to be thankful for in 2009! Many of our fellow citizens are still struggling, please remember them in your prayers and share what ever you can with them.

We continue to explore the Southwest. The "Land of Enchantment" truly describes New Mexico. So what are you waiting for... plan a trip to or though the southwest and include a stop in Sandia Park.

Kristi & Matt

Minnesota

One of the highlights of the year was Kristi & Matt's wedding in September. I gave away my only daughter and gained a wonderful Son-in-law.

It was great to have the entire family together, including Dorothy's parents and my sister. The kids went to Disney World for their Honeymoon.

We are pleased to formally welcome Matt & his family into our family.

Kevin, Karina & Elijah

Germany (Deutschland)

Another highlight was spending some quality time with Kevin, Karina and meeting my newest Grandson. Of course, Dorothy already got her snuggle time in during her trip to Germany for his baptism in April. We got to spend over a week getting to know the littlest addition to the Lundy family.

Kevin continues to embrace Germany and his extended family in the Deutschland. Kev and I spent several intense hours exchanging political views. I love him dearly, but he has gone over to the dark side.

Ken, Rachel, Sara & Ethan

Minnesota

Last but clearly not least, is Ken Jr. and his family. Kristi's wedding had another side benefit, we got to spend time with Sara & Ethan.

It's hard to believe, but Sara is 12 (going on 21), she has become a wonderful young lady. Ethan is 7 and is full of energy, far more than this old fart can keep up with. We are very proud grandparents.

Ken & family met up with Kristi & Matt in Florida, sounds like all had a good time. Still can't believe Kristi wanted to share her honeymoon.

God Bless Your Home & Family in the New Year.

Winter in Sandia Park

A view of the Ortiz Mountains from our Patio. Yes we get snow (we are at 6,800 ft), but it typically melts within a couple days.

Mission (Acoma Pueblo)

Dorothy & I find the countless Missions & Churches in the Southwest fascinating. A great legacy left behind by the Spanish, was the Missions.

Santa Fe

Santa Fe is celebrating it's 400th anniversary in 2010. The Rail-Runner Train drops you off at this AT&T style depot, one of many in New Mexico.

Route 66

This is one of our favorite stops in New Mexico. A wonderful stretch of the old slab, which routes you through Laguna Pueblo and beyond.

Mountains, Mountains & more Mountains

This Vista could be at one of a 100 places in New Mexico. On this day we were north of Silver City, taking in the Gila National Forest.

Aspens in all their Glory

It doesn't get any better than taking in the Aspens in the fall. Did you know they are the largest living organism on the planet?

A couple "Smoky the Bear" tidbits. He celebrating his 65th birthday this year and was based on a Bear saved from a fire in the Lincoln National Forest north of Ruidoso New Mexico.
